

Ready to Launch

Delivering reliability and results at scale with Thrive's Professional Services

Migrations, service changes, carve-outs, or new project rollouts have the potential to be highly disruptive to your business operations, teams, and customers. Many MSPs take a "rip and replace" approach, accepting several weeks of upheaval to do an immediate transfer from one service to another. Thrive has a very different focus: smooth transitions, clear communications, and prioritized changes that align with all of the stakeholder needs within your organization.

Thrive's change management model helps clients launch new IT projects in a way that is consistent – without tight deadlines, missed stakeholders, or general chaos. New projects are managed with the same structured, collaborative approach. Our key priorities are:

- Reduce or eliminate downtime
- Communicate clearly
- Collaborate with all affected teams
- Meet your business targets

Dedicated Delivery Teams

Most MSPs divide their regular IT teams between routine maintenance and client onboarding or projects. At Thrive, our delivery teams are focused exclusively on new projects. We have over 75 dedicated engineers specialized on technology segments so that every client gets insightful, experienced IT engineering aligned to the requirements of their business goals.

"Our team was faced with a significant migration project, and we sought an experienced partner to help us make the process seamless and be available as an extension of our internal team for support when needed. Thrive ended up being the partner we were looking for – and more."
